STATE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear IMA GSB Friends,
Seasons' Greetings. Happy Holi and Dhuleti. Happy Cheti Chand & Happy Ram Navami & Swaminarayan Jayanti, in advance.

It gives me immense pleasure to inform you all, that on 05th January, 2023; we had our online meeting with our national IMA president Dr. Sharad Agrawal & Hon. Secretary General Dr. Anil Nayak. We briefed them about our ongoing as well as novel activities.

On 21-01-'23, in a large meeting at IMA HQ New Delhi, attended by every state branch presidents and secretaries, we presented our works and new projects; which were specially praised and accorded by national IMA.

On 24-01-'23, in an online meeting of IMA GSB office bearers and State Working committee, problems were discussed and suggestions to solve them were taken. Dr. Anil Nayak gave a really inspiring speech. Most importantly, suicide prevention and task force and helpline is started.

Need of the time:

- Continuous improvement and maintenance of quality and standard of medical services.
- Preventing/minimising conflicts and medico-legal cases.
- Re-establishing the trust of patients and making medical practice safe and happy.

How to achieve above goals:

- Improving medical education and training.
- Establishing the practice of EBM (Evidence Based Medicine).
- Improving the COMMUNICATION between the doctor and patient.

To look after the standard of medical education and training, we already have NMC which is working hard and already showing some good signs.

Practice of EBM also can be better implemented by NMC although IMA also can play major role by:

- Helping to create committees of each speciality and national and state level.

Such committees can prepare clinical guidelines and protocols for the management of all the conditions. (The same way Royal colleges in Europe and Australia are working)

- Advising and helping DOH and NMC to form an institution which prepares the guidelines (like NICE- National Institute for Clinical Excellence)
- The above two actions would require lot of planning, time, budget and involvement and coordination of different agencies but we at least can start working in that direction.

The most easy yet most effective measure is to focus on Communication.

All the studies and research have concluded that majority (almost 80%) of problems of conflict and medicolegal consequences could have been prevented or minimised if there was proper communication between the medical team and patient.

Western medical world has already recognised the importance of better communication and therefore they have made it an integral part of medical education and training. They also arrange regular courses and educational seminars for their working medical force.

Today is the right time to focus and take concrete steps for better communication.

May I suggest the slogan: "Better communication- Better outcome".

Typical course on communication would include: 1) Art of listening 2) How to talk better 3) The concept of informed choices & involving patients in decision making 4) Better consent taking 5) Conflict resolution Better communication would definitely help reducing the medicolegal problems but more importantly, it would also reduce the stress levels and improve the quality of life and thus make medical practice more enjoyable and happy.

HON. STATE SECRETARY'S MESSAGE

Dear Members,

There is a paradigm shift in the way the world is being perceived today. A multitude of changes are taking place in various spectrums and every day we hear of some revolutionary achievement, exploit or handiwork which influences the equilibrium of our existence.

Gender equality has been the buzzword for quite sometime and is gradually making its presence felt in all the professions more so in Medicine, since compassion, care and benevolence are the hallmarks of the feminine gender.

“A successful woman is one who can build a firm foundation with the bricks others have thrown at her.”

International Women's Day is celebrated on March 8th every year. This day celebrates the social, economic, cultural and political achievements of women. We always see a larger coefficient of women in our profession in our field and also digital innovation and technology is what medical science thrives on. So, this year why not combine both to achieve greater gender equality and inspire other professions to emulate our mantra?

Medical students are vulnerable to depression, suicidal ideation because of personal and professional distress resulting from several factors. These include information overload, lack of leisure time, being away from home, academic load, peer pressure and parents pressure. The youth are fragile and are flowers yet to bloom. They are vulnerable to depressive disorders and suicidal ideation, as a consequence of perfectionism, obsession, neuroticism, and introversion, as well as low self-esteem.

Despite easy access to medical care, medical students are often reluctant to seek psychiatric help. Concerns about time, confidentiality, stigma, and the potential negative effects on their careers are associated with undertreatment of medical students for mental health problems. Identification of the prevalence and factors associated with depression ideation in medical students can help the timely detection and provision of appropriate interventions to reduce the magnitude of the problem.

The best and most pragmatic approach would be to have a positive mindset in the most adverse of situations. The onus is on the seniors, doctors, administrative heads and the medical fraternity to safeguard the lives of such students and ensure preventive programs and medical counselling to prevent such incidents in the future. The formation of the “IMA GSB cares” program is one such initiative to provide the much needed solace and assurance to the medical students.

“Keep your face always towards the sunshine – and shadows will fall behind you.”

It becomes imperative for our association to increase our footprints amongst the youth. Hence membership drive is high up on the list of priorities at IMA. Our presence amongst the younger generation will help form a bridge between the old and the new and establish the much needed connect in the newer generation of doctors being catapulted into private medical practice.

To,
The Coordinator,

Respected Sir/Madam,

Sub : Formation of “IMA GSB Cares“ Committee to curb suicidal tendencies amongst medical students.

This is in reference to the burning issue of suicidal tendencies amongst medical students. The students are facing a lack of mental health and peer support in dealing with the burden of medical education.

Keeping this in mind, The IMA GSB executive committee conducted meetings with senior doctors and eminent professors as well as ex-alumni to come to the root of the problem. It has been a unanimous decision to form a “IMA GSB Cares” committee, to regularly counsel and care for the students.

The committee will be formed of local IMA members as well as doctors from the medical college where it is situated. The team is proposed to consist of the following doctors.

1. IMA–3 doctors
2. Psychiatrists –2 doctors
3. Medical student –2
4. Parents –2
5. Medical college and hospital –2 doctors

We would love to create this team at the earliest, hence request you to send in names of local representatives who would be voluntarily ready to join this benevolent activity.

Mobile Application | Ni-kshay Setu | TB patient Management

Greetings from the Indian Institute of Public Health, Gandhinagar. Indian Institute of Public Health Gandhinagar \(IIPHG\) is India's first Public Health University. The Indian Institute of Public Health Gandhinagar (IIPHG) is working towards building a healthier India. IIPHG is an example of visionary leadership of Honourable Shri Narendra Modi (then Honourable Chief Minister of Gujarat), who laid the foundation stone and provided support for establishing the institute in 2008. IIPHG has developed the Nikshay Setu mobile application, ready reckoner for the health staff that can guide them with user-responsive content and helps the private practitioners - for decision-making for the TB patient. Till date, more than 100+ private practitioners are using it to enhance their knowledge. Based on our experience, the mobile app is also useful to all areas of speciality who are managing TB patients and the content is based on GoI National program guidelines.

- The app is not capturing any details of the patients.
- The app is free to use.
- The app is developed with content developed from Govt of India's National TB control Program guidelines.
- One-stop solution interface with access to latest news related to TB patient management.

I am here to share the brief information of Nikshay Setu. There are No financial implications attached to this use of the application.

For additional information on the Ni-kshay Setu application, explore the following links:

(Support to End Tuberculosis)

The objective of the digital application is to deliver ease of access to the service providers with the contents directed towards the patient-centric TB care cascade, aligned with objectives of the CGC project.

KEY FEATURES OF THE NI-KSHAY SETU

01

Visualization

Adaptive and dynamic user interface providing all TB-related information under one umbrella

02

Knowledge Support

Care Cascade Algorithm - NTEP guideline-based modules for the TB patient management

03

Decision-Making at Ease

Single window offers choice-based learning and practical solutions

04

Multilingual Support

Multiple Language Support with the inbuilt modules and content

Voice-assisted AI chatbot provides practical solutions for more than 70,000 NTEP operational functions

Assess yourself to the content and cadre specific questions based on NTEP guidelines and protocols

APPLICATION CONTENT CONSTRUCTION PROCESS

Research

Analysis

Consultation

Development

Multiple consultative meetings with state, district officials, consortium partners, and NTEP experts are being undertaken to identify the core components to be prioritized into designing the digital interface. Participatory feedback mechanism established to develop content in form of a ready reckoner of the NTEP guidelines.

Management of adverse drug reaction of Anti-tuberculosis drugs

Pulmonary tuberculosis (TB) is a contagious infection that caused by tubercular mycobacterium ,that mostly involves the lung but affect any part of the body except hair,nail,lens. It may spread to other organs and that call disseminated tuberculosis

Pulmonary TB is caused by the bacterium Mycobacterium tuberculosis (M tuberculosis). TB is contagious. This means the bacteria are easily spread from an infected person to someone else. You can get TB by breathing in air droplets from a cough or sneeze of an infected person. The resulting lung infection is called primary TB.

Most people recover from primary TB infection without further evidence of the disease. The infection may stay inactive (dormant) for years. In some people, it becomes active again (reactivates)when natural immune mechanism compromise.

Most people who develop symptoms of a TB infection first became infected in the past. In some cases, the disease becomes active within weeks after the primary infection.

Most important question when patient on taking anti- TB treatment is adverse drug reaction , most of the time they are mild which will clear over a period of time and only reassurance required but some patient have serious issue

Dermatologic (Skin) Adverse Effects :-

- Mild “flushing” reactions (two different types of reactions)
- Reaction 1 flushing and/or itching of the skin with or without a rash -usually involves the face and scalp; may cause redness/watering of the eyes,usually occurs 2-3 hours after drug ingestion
- Reaction 2 :-flushing and/or itching of the skin with or without a rash PLUS hot flashes, palpitations, headache and/or increased blood pressure occurs immediately after ingestion of certain foods (see below) usually resolves within 2 hours
- Causative agents:- Reaction 1: rifampin, pyrazinamide & Reaction 2: isoniazid + tyramine containing foods (cheese, red wine) or certain fish (tuna, skipjack)
- Management Reaction 1 flushing is usually mild and resolves without therapy if flushing is bothersome to the patient, an antihistamine may be administered to treat
- Reaction 2 advise patient not to ingest foods listed above while receiving INH

Dermatologic (Skin) Adverse Effects Moderate/severe hypersensitivity (immune) reactions

- Clinical Presentation hives (raised, itchy rash) with or without fever
- Causative Agents INH < rifampin < PZA < ethionamide < cycloserine < ethambutol < para-aminosalicylic acid < streptomycin
- Note: in children, viral infections (e.g. Epstein-Barr and Herpes Simplex) commonly result in hives that may be confused with a drug reaction.

- Management :- Children
  1. Discontinue all drugs
  2. Rule out a viral infection a. full physical exam b. complete blood count (examine for lymphocytosis)
  3. If a viral infection is present, restart all of the TB medications (no rechallenge is required)
  4. If a viral infection is ruled out, follow drug rechallenge guidelines

Adult management guidelines( doses must be adjusted for age and weight.)

1. Discontinue all drugs until the reaction resolves
2. Identify the causative drug by rechallenging (restarting) each drug every 4 days according to table list

Drug Rechallenge Protocol
Drug	Challenge Doses
	Day 1	Day 2
isoniazid	50mg	300mg
rifampin	75mg	300mg
pyrazinamide	250mg	1.0gm
ethionamide	125mg	375mg
cycloserine	125mg	250mg
ethambutol	100mg	500mg
para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS)	1.0gm	5.0gm
streptomycin	125mg	500mg

Gastrointestinal Adverse Effects

Nausea/vomiting Causative Agents

Ranked by frequency      +                  ++                  +++                  ++++

u                  uncommon                  common                  very common

++++ clofazimine, ethionamide, para-aminosalicylic acid (PAS)

++++ rifampin

+++ rifabutin, isoniazid (twice and thrice weekly dosing)

++ ethambutol, pyrazinamide, ofloxacin, levofloxacin

+ isoniazid (qD), rifapentine, cycloserine, aminoglycosides , capreomycin

Management Children

1. Examine how the medication is being administered
  - a. Is the medication being administered as a liquid?
    - 1) administration of large volumes may cause vomiting because of the limited stomach capacity in infants and children
    - 2) if this is the cause, the child usually vomits immediately after medication administration
    - 3) refer to Appendix 4, page 52 b. Is the child gagging when medicine is administered? 1) children frequently “gag” to avoid taking medicine

- 2) administration of medication through a syringe is the best method to avoid "gagging"
- 3) Does the child take the medicine on an empty stomach?
  - 1) if so, give medications after meals (e.g. ask school nurse to administer medications after lunch)
2. Rule out other causes of nausea and vomiting
  - a. How often does nausea and vomiting occur?
  - b. When does it start in relation to taking the medications?
  - c. Could the child have a viral infection?

Adults

1. Rule out other causes of nausea and vomiting
  - a. Ask questions:
    - "Have you had stomach problems in the past?"
    - "If so, did it feel like this?"
    - "What made your stomach problems better in the past?"
    - "Did you eat/drink or do anything differently than usual the day you had nausea/vomiting?"
    - "How often do you have nausea and vomiting?"
    - "When does it start in relation to taking your TB medications?"
    - "How long does it last?"
    - "Does it happen every time you take your medicine?"
    - "Is it difficult for you to swallow your pills?"
    - "How much water or juice do you drink when taking your pills?"

Hepatotoxicity (Hepatitis)

Clinical Presentation :-

symptoms: nausea, vomiting, abdominal tenderness, discomfort near the ribs on the right upper abdomen, jaundice (yellowing of skin and whites of the eyes)

signs: hepatic enlargement, increased LFTs

Causative Agents:- INH + rifampin > INH alone >> pyrazinamide alone > rifampin alone > ethionamide Hepatotoxicity in Children:- hepatotoxicity is very uncommon in children.

Routine Monitoring for Hepatotoxicity in Adults

1. Obtain baseline liver function tests (LFTs)
  - a. serum transaminase enzymes
    - SGPT [normal 0-40 u/l] & SGOT [normal 0-40 u/l]
  - b. alkaline phosphatase [normal 25-115 u/l]
  - c. gamma glutamyl transpeptidase (GGTP) [normal 10-50 u/l]
  - d. total bilirubin [normal 0.2-1.5 mg/d]

2. Obtain follow-up LFTs:
  - a. patients < 35 years old with normal baseline LFTs and without a history of hepatic disease: follow-up labs are not required unless the patient becomes symptomatic
  - b. patient > 35 years old, daily alcohol consumption, abnormal baseline LFTs or a history of hepatic disease: obtain LFTs every 4-6 weeks

Management in Adults

1. Asymptomatic patients with an increase in LFTs from baseline:
  - a. if the increase in LFTs is < 3-5x normal: continue the current regimen and monitor for symptoms of liver dysfunction<sup>3,9</sup> (see "Clinical Presentation" section)
  - b. for asymptomatic patients, if the serum transaminases increases > 3-5x normal: hold INH until levels return to baseline
    - 1) if the patient is receiving a two drug regimen, substitute at least one other drug (e.g. ethambutol) until the INH is restarted
    - 2) if the transaminases increase with rechallenge of INH, discontinue INH, substitute another drug (e.g. ethambutol) and adjust the treatment duration as required
  - c. if the serum total bilirubin increases: therapy usually does not require modification (rifampin competes with bilirubin for elimination resulting in increased serum bilirubin initially; bilirubin levels usually return to normal with continued therapy)
2. Symptomatic patients
  - a. Hold all drugs and obtain LFTs
  - b. If LFTs are within the normal ranges, refer to the Management of Nausea/Vomiting section (pages 7-9)
  - c. If LFTs are elevated, hold drugs until symptoms resolve and the transaminases decreases to < 2x normal
    - 1) ethambutol and pyrazinamide should be started if drug therapy can not be held secondary to the patient's clinical condition a) use streptomycin if pyrazinamide is suspected to be the cause of hepatotoxicity
    - 2) rechallenge the patient after resolution of signs and symptoms by adding drugs to the regimen every 4 days :
      - a) rifampin for 3 days, if patients remains asymptomatic then add INH for 3 days, if patients remains asymptomatic then add pyrazinamide (15-20mg/kg/d) for 3 days
      - 3) if signs and symptoms recur with rechallenge, discontinue the responsible drug and modify the regimen and/or duration of therapy as required

Arthalgias (joint pain)

Arthalgias Type 1 Causative Agents:- pyrazinamide>>ethambutol>isoniazid

Clinical Presentation pain and tenderness of joints: fingers, shoulders, knees, etc. (usually mild)

Management:-TB medications do not require discontinuation ,low dose nonsteroidal antiinflammatory agents (NSAIDS) can be used for pain relief as needed ,if symptoms persist, consider referral for rheumatologic evaluation

Arthalgias Type 2 (Gouty Arthritis):- Causative Agents -pyrazinamide>>ethambutol

Clinical Presentation:-: pain, tenderness and swelling of joints,fingers, shoulders, knees, etc.

symptoms are usually severe & have elevated serum uric acid concentrations

Management:-TB medications usually do not require discontinuation Management

- If acute swelling is present, the affected joint should be aspirated and examined for urate crystals to confirm the diagnosis of acute gouty arthritis.
  - Therapy a. nonsteroidal antiinflammatory agents include: indomethacin 50mg tid-qid until pain relief, then 25mg tid-qid , ibuprofen 800mg tid ,naproxen 750mg x1, then 250mg q 8 hour
  - b. colchicine is an alternative to NSAIDS dose: 0.5-1.2 mg x1, then 0.5-0.6 mg q 1-2 hours until joint pain is relieved or nausea, vomiting or diarrhea occurs 2) pain usually resolves after 4-8 mg cumulative dose 3) maximum dose: 8mg per day a steroid taper may be required for severe attacks
4. Recurrent episodes may occur while the patient remains on pyrazinamide or ethambutol.

a. consider using prophylactic colchicine 1) 0.6mg one to two times daily or continue until causative agent is discontinued

Consider referral for rheumatologic evaluation for acute gouty arthritis attacks

Neurotoxicity (Nervous System) &Peripheral Neuropathy

Causative Agents:- INH>>>ethambutol

Clinical Presentation :-prickling, tingling or burning sensation of the fingers and/or toes usually occurs in a stocking glove distribution

Management :-peripheral neuropathy rarely occurs in children unless severe malnutrition is present,peripheral neuropathy is uncommon if the patient is receiving pyridoxine (vitamin B6) if peripheral neuropathy occurs, it can be treated with pyridoxine 100-200mg po q day while the patient is receiving INH1

Nervous System Effects in Children Causative Agents :-INH

Clinical Presentation drowsiness or hyperactivity,dizziness,tonic/clonic seizures (rare)

Management

1 Drowsiness

a. make sure the dose does not exceed 10mg/kg/d

b. add pyridoxine 50mg to the regimen

- c. administer medications around afternoon naps or at bedtime (e.g. administer school DOT at the end of the day so the child can take a nap after school)
2. Hyperactivity a. make sure the dose does not exceed 10mg/kg/d b. switch to twice weekly dosing as soon as possible 1) if the child becomes hyperactive only on the days of medication administration, then the medication is the cause 2) add pyridoxine 50mg daily for 6 weeks, then twice weekly for the remainder of therapy
  3. Dizziness a. make sure the dose does not exceed 10mg/kg/d 4. Tonic/clonic seizures a. hospitalize the child and administer isoniazid to document the reaction b. if a seizure occurs, discontinue isoniazid and add an alternative agent to the regimen

Optic Neuritis (vision)

Causative Agents ethambutol >> INH3

Clinical Presentation :-blurred vision (decrease in the “sharpness” of objects) “spots” present in patient's field of vision ,red/green color blindness

optic neuritis has not been documented in children

Management:-children with complaints of vision changes should be referred to eye specialist & discontinue drug

Nephrotoxicity (kidneys)

Clinical Presentation nonoliguric acute renal failure (patient continues to have 1-2 liters/day urine output) 10 serum creatinine increases 7-10 days after initiation of therapy magnesium and potassium wasting may occur

Agents:-kanamycin = amikacin > streptomycin

Mechanism of toxicity is acute tubular necrosis

Risk Factors:- high aminoglycoside serum concentrations, increasing age, prolonged aminoglycoside use, hypotension, concurrent use of other nephrotoxic drugs, volume depletion, hepatic disease, pre-existing renal impairment

Management:- discontinue aminoglycoside therapy

Ototoxicity (ears) :-

Clinical Presentation -

cochlear toxicity: loss of hearing (usually high frequency hearing loss occurs first) cochlear: kanamycin ≥ amikacin > streptomycin

vestibular toxicity: vertigo, incoordination, dizziness, nausea vestibular: streptomycin > kanamycin ≥ amikacin

Risk Factors 2 high aminoglycoside serum concentrations total dose (amikacin > 15gm<sup>2</sup>, kanamycin > 14gm<sup>2</sup>, streptomycin 120gm<sup>9</sup>) concomitant ototoxins (e.g. loop diuretics), prior aminoglycoside use, increasing age (>60) 9, pre-existing hearing loss

Management discontinue aminoglycoside therapy

Psych assessment of medicos every 6-12 months mooted

Guj IMA Wants 32 Med Colleges To Set Up 'Care Committees'

Bharat.Yagnik@timesgroup.com

Ahmedabad: The 32 medical colleges in Gujarat would get dedicated committees to address the growing number of suicides by medical students. Medical experts have sought periodic assessment of medical students every 6 to 12 months have also and suggested steps including improvement in faculty member mentor to student ratio, better peer support and dedicated helpline.

The Indian Medical Association Gujarat State Branch (IMA-GSB) has recently written a letter to the colleges to set up 'IMA-GSB Care Committee' with 11 members 'at the earliest'.

A letter dated February 1 by IMA-GSB termed suicides "the burning issue" and added that "the students are facing a lack of mental health and peer support in dealing with the burden of medical education".

Dr Mehul Shah, secretary of IMA-GSB, told TOI that the initiative is to ensure that the students under any kind of duress don't feel lonely or unheard. "The 'IMA-GSB Cares Committee' would have three doctors from IMA, two psychiatrists, two medical students, two parents and two doctors from medical college and hospital. We have already sent out letters to the hospitals for the same recently," he said.

WHAT AILS THE MINDS?

'Workload not sole reason for suicides'

Dr Hanasa Goswami, in-charge dean of the BJ Medical College, said that currently the assessment takes place only once, which would be carried out regularly. "One of the proposals is to improve the faculty mentor and student ratio and better insight into the student's mental or physical stress. The deans would delve into the history of the student and address issues of peer and environment pressure," she said.

The state had recorded suicides by nine medical students in 2022 including five in Ahmedabad. In January this year, a 21-year-old student from NHM Municipal Medical College ended life by jumping into the Sabarmati from Atal Bridge.

Experts pointed out about 20 suicides per 1 lakh medical students, which is roughly double compared to Gujarat's suicide rate of 11.7 per 1 lakh population. A national study on suicides in medical field indicated between 2010 and 2018, 358 ended lives that included 125 UG students, 15 PG students and 128 doctors. In about 20% cases, workplace ha-

SUGGESTIONS BY IMA-GSB

- 1 Formation of voluntary committees at college level comprising faculty members, parents and psychiatrists
- 2 Disseminate information about the helpline and ways to seek help or encourage conversations about their apprehensions and frustrations
- 3 Encourage peer-to-peer counselling and talk to reduce stigma and fear
- 4 Develop more understanding and safe environment
- 5 Counselling of parents, if needed, to understand the life of a medical student
- 6 Conduct seminars and workshops regularly on mental health

WORKLOAD, HARASSMENT AND EXPECTATIONS SOME OF THE STRESS FACTORS: A city-based psychiatrist who worked closely with the government doctors - both students and residents - during the pandemic period told TOI on condition of anonymity that it's a multifaceted issue. "Excruciating working hours are one of the primary reasons - especially in the first year. The students struggle to cope with inhuman hours and expectations from both the seniors and faculties. Harassment and ragging is rampant, and as it's a peer-based profession, only a few report it to the authorities," said the psychiatrist. "Apart from that, it's often their own or family's expectations that become a huge burden to carry. It happens more among students who are often the first doctors in their family."

Assessment was found to be the reason for the extreme step.

Rahul Gameti, president of Junior Doctors' Association,

HELPLINE AT PSYCHIATRY DEPARTMENT TO ADDRESS STUDENT CONCERNS:

Dr Minakshi Parikh, head of the psychiatry department at BJ Medical College, said that every incoming student is given the helpline number along with the welcome letter. "The helpline is run by senior counsellors and not residents. Some of the issues that we come across include difficulty in adjusting to the new schedule - the students often come to the college after a couple of years' intense preparation at home where they are treated with reverence. Suddenly, they are junior-most members of the team who are expected to do everything," she said, adding that initial phase is crucial to identify and address suicidal tendencies or signs of stress. The experts also added that it's difficult to bring the students first for the counselling. Afterwards, the students often become part of the support group and are more open to getting help to address their issues.

address them. The JDA members are asked to support new students in adjusting to the new life," he said.
