STATE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Greetings, Dear IMA Colleagues,

I'd like to extend my best wishes for a very happy, healthy, and wealthy new year.

As is common knowledge, the only thing in this world that is constant is change. At GIMACON 2023, the succession of leaders will be seen once more. Under the capable direction of our deserving president, Dr Mahaveersinh Jadeja, a complete year had passed. And on 28th October 2023, with the blessings of Seniors and your unwavering love and support, I proudly take on the role of President of the IMA GSB.

Lord Somnath, Lord Dwarkadhish, Maa Khodal, and Maa Umiya have always given me the opportunity and blessing to take on a variety of roles, including those of President of the Gujarat Association of ENT Surgeons, Chairman of the State Conference of ENT, Chairman of GIMACON 2016, District Governor of the Lions Club, and various other NGOs. Accepting the position of President of the IMA GSB for the academic year 2023-2024 makes me feel incredibly fortunate and proud. All of this is made possible by the JOSH and Affection of my RAJKOT IMA Parivar's 2000+ members.

IMA is now dealing with a number of pressing concerns on a state and national level, including the NMC, generic drugs, nursing home act, fire safety, BU permission, assaults on doctors, etc. Our capable leadership has always played a crucial role in bringing all of these concerns before the appropriate authority and being able to express our point of view. I can assure you that I will follow in the steps of our great leaders and actively contribute my time, energy, and resources to solving all the issues our fraternity is currently dealing with. At the same time, I will uphold our professional ethics, a compassionate attitude toward our patients, and empathy for the less fortunate members of our society.

At the National level, important positions are actively held by members of our Gujarat IMA. National Secretary General is one of us, Dr. Anil Nayak. I am fortunate to receive ongoing support and advice from these national leaders and all eminent former GUJ IMA presidents. As the Hon. Secretary of IMA Gujarat, the vivacious Dr. Mehul Shah is another blessing for me. I have no doubt that we will work together to advance the IMA and give you all the best service possible.

As the GIMACON Golden Jubilee approaches, I wish Dr. Mahaveersinh and his team every success. I will also extend an invitation to you by saying, "NEXT YEAR RAJKOT."

JAI IMA, JAI JAI GARVI GUJARAT, JAI HIND.

Dr. Bharat M. Kakadia
President, G.S.B., I.M.A.

HON. STATE SECRETARY'S MESSAGE

Dear Fellow Doctors,

I want to extend my heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Mahavirsinh Jadeja and remarkable team for their unwavering dedication and extraordinary efforts that have truly transformed IMA Guj during the year 2022-23. Under Dr. Jadeja's inspiring leadership and guidance, IMA Guj has scaled new heights, setting numerous milestones & achieving significant victories. Their exceptional commitment to supporting doctors and the healthcare community is truly praiseworthy.

I extend my heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to the newly elected President of IMA Guj for 2023-24, Dr. Bharat Kakadia & team reflecting the spirit of unity and progress found in Rajkot. Under your esteemed leadership, I'm confident that the medical community will reach unprecedented heights of success, much like the growth and vibrancy of our beloved Rajkot city. Your unwavering commitment to the "Aao Gaon Chalen" project, aimed at enhancing community health in rural areas, mirrors the essence of our region, and I'm certain it will bring quality healthcare to every nook and cranny. United doctors, just like the diverse and supportive community of Gujarat, will not only create a significant impact in medical academics but also provide invaluable support and insights to the younger generation of doctors, making their professional journey as enriching as our local traditions and culture.

On World Diabetes Day, the theme "Know your risk - know your response" emphasizes the importance of awareness and action. Understanding risk factors like family history and undergoing regular screenings for blood sugar, blood pressure, and cholesterol is vital. Armed with this knowledge, person can customize their responses, which may involve personalized diabetes management plans encompassing diet, exercise, medication, and check-ups. This slogan reminds us that proactive steps and informed choices can significantly mitigate diabetes and its complications. Organizing a local diabetes screening and prevention camp with healthcare professionals is a valuable community initiative, fostering long-term lifestyle improvements for those with diabetes.

Managing diabetes is like being a cricketer at the batting crease, aiming to win for your health. Just as a batsman carefully watches each ball, someone with diabetes must monitor their blood sugar levels regularly. Selecting the right shot at the right time is akin to making healthy food choices and ensuring proper portion control. Just as a cricketer adjusts their game plan based on the situation, individuals with diabetes need to adapt their management strategies according to their blood sugar levels. A solid partnership between diet, exercise, medication, and lifestyle, similar to a batsman's partnership with a teammate, can lead to success in managing diabetes, ensuring you stay on the winning side of health.

I urge doctors and local branch to host diabetes camps for seniors, promoting better health and preventing complications. It's a powerful step to improve their lives.

To,

The Registrars
All State Medical Councils(As per list)

Subject: Registered practitioners to not display any degree/qualification which is not recognized by MCI/NMC regarding

Sir/Madam,

Instances have come to the notice of Ethics and Medical Registration Board where registered Medical Practitioners claim to be a specialist without having requisite qualification in a particular Branch.

2. The issue of self proclaimed specialist or super specialist with unrecognized medical degrees and diplomas has also been raised by organizations working in the field.

3. In order to increase the awareness of the common citizens as well as unregistered doctors on unethical practices across all the states in India, it is necessary to spread the message against the use of any fake/unrecognized medical degrees by Registered Medical Practitioners and the punitive action that comes with it, including suspension/cancellation of their medical registrations in accordance to the law.

4. In this regard, all SMCs are requested to spread awareness about provisions contained in Regulations of NMC according to which Registered Medical Practitioner shall not claim to be a clinical specialist unless he/she has NMC recognized training & qualification in that specific branch of modern medicine.

Yours faithfully,

CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

Gujarat National Law University (GNLU) in collaboration with Indian Medical Association-Gujarat State Branch (IMA-GSB), is organizing a groundbreaking conference on Medical Law, Policy, and Ethics. This conference aims to bring together legal professionals, medical practitioners, scholars, policymakers, and stakeholders from various fields to engage in meaningful discussions and address the critical issues at the intersection of medicine, law, policy, and ethics. This conference aims to delve into the multifaceted realm where medicine, law, policy, and ethics intersect, facilitating profound discussions, knowledge sharing, and exploration of emerging issues in healthcare.

The field of healthcare is continually evolving, presenting new challenges and complexities that demand multidisciplinary approaches for effective resolution. In recent times, the healthcare landscape has become increasingly complex, posing numerous challenges that require comprehensive and collaborative approaches for effective solutions. The dynamic interplay between medical advancements, evolving legal frameworks, ethical considerations, and societal expectations calls for a deeper understanding of the intricate relationships within these domains.

The National Conference on Medical Law, Policy, and Ethics serves as a pivotal forum to address these complexities and challenges head-on. By embracing a holistic perspective, the conference seeks to navigate the intricate nuances of medical law, policy, and ethics, ultimately driving positive change and ensuring patient-centered care. This conference aims to provides a unique opportunity for professionals and stakeholders to engage in robust dialogue, exchange ideas, share research findings, and disseminate best practices. It fosters interdisciplinary collaboration, transcending boundaries between medicine, law, and ethics to forge innovative and practical solutions that safeguard patient rights, uphold ethical standards, and shape progressive policies.

Participants will have the privilege of exploring a diverse range of themes and topics, ranging from the legal and ethical dimensions of healthcare decision making to the profound impact of emerging technologies on medical practices. Through keynote speeches, panel discussions, workshops, and interactive sessions, attendees will gain valuable insights, expand their knowledge base, and enhance their professional networks.

Communication Between Doctor and Patient's Relatives

- Keywords: Communication; timely referral; patient care
- Context/Category: Patient Care
- Summary of the Case:

A 14-year-old boy was brought to a Primary Health Centre (PHC) with complaints of diarrhoea, fever, dizziness, and light-headedness. He was found to be febrile with low blood pressure and was advised of blood investigations and medications for the same. The patient returned to the PHC with persistent symptoms. He was found hypotensive. Malaria and dengue infections were ruled out. He was referred to the District Government Hospital on the same day, where he was managed with IV fluids, antibiotics, and symptomatic treatment. Patient's condition did not improve and he was referred to a tertiary care hospital in a state of shock with a provisional diagnosis of acute gastroenteritis with thrombocytopenia and leucopenia. The patient was admitted and investigations were done. Subsequently, he developed severe breathing difficulty and was shifted to ICU for intensive care. Patient's condition continued to deteriorate despite ventilatory support and intensive care. Poor prognosis was explained to the relatives. He died soon after.

Patient's relative filed a complaint of medical negligence against the doctors of tertiary care center with the State Medical Council (SMC). After hearing and due diligence, the SMC found no evidence of medical negligence and exonerated the doctors.

Patient's relative appealed to Ethics and Medical Registration Board, National Medical Commission (NMC) against the SMC order. EMRB, NMC upheld the SMC decision and found no evidence of medical negligence.

- Discussion

Patient was initially taken to the primary center, where the patient was managed and a timely referral was made to the District Hospital. At the District Hospital, appropriate investigations and treatment were carried out. Despite this, the patient's condition continued to deteriorate, and was promptly referred to a tertiary care hospital. The patient was investigated and treated promptly with the standard of care acceptable in such cases. But unfortunately, the patient died and this negative outcome led to litigation. SMC exonerated the doctors and opined that there was no medical negligence.

The doctors should be aware that in spite of adequate care and their best intentions, litigations may occur. Effective communication and proper documentation will mitigate the risk of such litigations.

- Take Home Messages

1. Doctor-patient relationship is very unique in itself. It requires lot of trust between doctors and patients. If there is trust deficit, it leads to litigation against the doctors. In majority of cases, the most common cause of complaints against doctors is due to a communication gap.
2. In most instances, doctors fail to explain to the patients and their relatives about diagnosis, treatment plan etc. in spite of their good intentions.
3. The Medical Professional is expected to bring a reasonable degree of skill and knowledge and must exercise a reasonable degree of care. Neither a very high nor a very low degree of care and competence judged in the light of the particular circumstances of each case is what the law requires. A Medical Practitioner would be liable only when his conduct falls below that of the standards of a reasonably competent practitioner in his field.
4. Medical Professionals are entitled to get protection as long as they perform their duties with reasonable skill and competence and in the interest of the patients. The interest and welfare of the patients have to be paramount for the Medical Professionals.

CASE 2*Allegation of Wrong Diagnosis Leading to Delay in Treatment

- Key Words: Wrong diagnosis, Delay in treatment, Medical Negligence, ICU
- Context: Patient Care
- Abstract:

A young male patient reported to the emergency department of a private hospital (X) with fever, abdominal pain, and 2 episodes of vomiting. Investigations revealed thrombocytopenia and hypotension, leading to a provisional diagnosis of dengue fever. Due to the unavailability of an ICU bed, he was stabilized and shifted to another private hospital for ICU care(Y). In hospital Y, he received care for four days in the ICU. He continued to receive treatment for Dengue fever under a team of pulmonologists and gastroenterologists. The patient was symptomatically better at the time of discharge on the 4th day. However, within 36 hours, he was rushed to another private hospital (Z) with severe abdominal pain. At this hospital, a diagnosis of volvulus, small intestine obstruction & gangrene was made necessitating emergency laparotomy and bowel resection. Patient's parent filed a case of negligence against the private hospital(Y) for wrong diagnosis leading to delay in treatment.

- Summary:

A young male patient presented, with fever, abdominal pain, and 2 episodes of vomiting for two days, to the emergency medicine department of a private hospital X. As the patient had hypotension and thrombocytopenia, a provisional diagnosis of dengue fever was made and symptomatic treatment was initiated. Due to the non- availability of the ICU beds at Hospital X, the patient was shifted to another private hospital (Y) on the same day for further management.

The patient was admitted in the ICU of Hospital Y under a Pulmonologist. He continued to receive treatment for Dengue fever under a team of pulmonologists and gastroenterologists. The patient was referred to a Gastroenterology consultation for abdominal pain and he was managed conservatively with antibiotics, antipyretics, and IV fluids.

A series of investigations were done including USG which indicated cystitis & Dengue NS1 was negative. The patient was accepting a soft bland diet and passing flatus during the stay. The patient improved and was discharged after four days. The discharge summary mentioned acute febrile illness or acute gastritis with dehydration, UTI, or Cystitis.

The patient had a relapse of abdominal pain within 36 hours of discharge. He was admitted again to another private hospital (Z). A diagnosis of intestinal obstruction with ischemic bowel due to volvulus was made. CT abdomen and pelvis showed dilatation of small bowel loops with features of small intestinal obstruction. An emergency laparotomy was done with resection of the small bowel and anastomosis. His condition improved and was discharged after six days.

The patient's father filed a petition before the erstwhile Medical Council of India (MCI) after seven months as a prima facie case of medical negligence against the treating doctors i.e. two pulmonologists and one gastroenterologist of the hospital (Y).

- Discussion:

The patient's father is a doctor and alleged that the two pulmonologists and a gastroenterologist at the hospital Y failed to diagnose and treat early intestinal obstruction, which led to life-threatening small bowel gangrene. This resulted in emergency laparotomy, resection & anastomosis of the small bowel. He also alleged that the patient was admitted/treated in the wrong specialty (pulmonology), hence pulmonologist missed the past history of abdominal surgery and failed to observe the abdominal scar. This led to wrong diagnosis and delay in treatment.

The patient's father directly filed a medical negligence case before the erstwhile MCI. The petition was forwarded to the State Medical Council by the Indian Medical Council. The accused doctors submitted an internal inquiry report of the hospital to the State Medical Council stating the diagnosis of acute febrile illness and no deficiency in service to the patient. The State Medical Council failed to conclude the matter within the stipulated time of six months. Ethics & Medical Registration Board (EMRB), NMC took over the case and directed the petitioner and doctors from Hospital Y to appear before the committee.

• Decision of EMRB, NMC:

EMRB observed that the patient was treated at the hospital (Y) by qualified doctors who were competent enough to attend to the patient and the patient was fit for discharge making the diagnosis of treating physicians justifiable.

Even if it was an intestinal obstruction, it may have been partial and not persistent, therefore justifying conservative treatment. Further, the EMRB observed that the petitioner himself as a senior doctor had no complaints at the time of discharge of the patient. Previous operating history/abdominal scar does not itself make the diagnosis of intestinal obstruction. The point of doing or not doing an X-ray/CT scan is a debate on under or over-investigation. Volvulus of the small intestine is a rare acute condition and can result in small bowel gangrene. Worsening of the symptoms occurred after discharge from the hospital Y. Such instances of evolving dynamic diseases leading to errors in diagnosis do not necessarily justify the case of medical negligence. The doctors in the present case had provided a reasonable degree of care. On the basis of all the facts and hearing of the case, EMRB decided to exonerate the doctors of Hospital Y.

• Lessons learned from the case:

- ▶ Clinical diagnosis and the human body are very complex. Two different diseases can occur in the same patient in a short span of time. In clinical medicine, it is a practice as far as possible to try and explain all symptomology through a single disease etiology. This may lead to wrong diagnosis and delay in treatment. In the realm of diagnosis and treatment, there is scope for genuine difference of opinion and one professional doctor is not negligent merely because his conclusion differs from that of another medical professional.
- ▶ History/examination findings should be documented meticulously -

One of the allegations was a history of previous abdominal surgery and the inspection finding of the abdominal scar was not documented by the treating physicians at hospital Y. Proper documentation is the best defence of a treating physician in the medical negligence cases and in the court of law. There should not be a mismatch between the physician's clinical notes and the nurse's progress notes.

- ▶ Proper communication - The condition of the patient should be briefed to the relatives/attendants of the patient regularly. Proper communication may avoid misunderstandings among relatives/attendants of the patient and lead to trust in the doctor-patient relationship. Even though the petitioner is a doctor in this case, he alleges that the condition of the patient was not properly explained.
- ▶ Negligence is the breach of a duty exercised by omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided by those considerations which ordinarily regulate the conduct of human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. The medical professional is expected to bring a reasonable degree of skill and knowledge and must exercise a reasonable degree of care. Neither the very highest nor a very low degree of care and competence judged in the light of the particular circumstances of each case is what the law requires. A medical practitioner would be liable only when his conduct falls below that of the standards of a reasonably competent practitioner in his field.
